

Student Accounts Office

Privacy Disclosure Notice

George Mason University (the “university”) is committed to protecting the privacy and security of student account data.

The Student Accounts Office (“Student Accounts”) may share student account data with service providers/vendors that support the collection of delinquent student accounts, such as student financial software service providers, outside collection agencies, or the Office of the Attorney General Division of Debt Collection.

Student Accounts may share the following types of student account data with such service providers/vendors: Name, address, phone number, email address, student ID number, date of birth, Social Security Number, outstanding balances, and payment history. Service providers/vendors may use this data to:

- Communicate with students about payment options;
- Report past due balance to a collection agency and/or credit bureau; and/or
- Contact students regarding their past due balance.

Student Accounts’ service providers have entered into legally binding agreements requiring them to use student account data only as necessary to perform services on our behalf, and to implement appropriate data security and confidentiality obligations and protocols in accordance with applicable law.

Students have the right to request access to their student account data held by the Student Accounts Office, and to request corrections to that data if necessary. For such requests, and for inquiries, concerns, and/or complaints regarding student account data matters, please contact the Student Accounts Office at:
